

The Guest House
Gentle Breeze
at Yenangyaung

A stone wall with a wooden fence and a sign that reads "Lei Char Gane Guest House". The wall is constructed from dark, irregular stones. The sign is a white rectangular plaque with black cursive text. To the right, a wooden fence with vertical posts and a horizontal rail is visible. The background is filled with lush green foliage, including ferns and other trees.

Lei Char Gane Guest House

View from the terrace to the Irrawadi river

Drops on the flowers –
after a short rainfall

Flowers
everywhere
!

Young bamboo bush

Stones board the beds.

Stones? They are petrified wood!

Breakfast on the terrace

The old dining room

The truss is made of beams and bamboo.

Bamboo roofs do not last for ever.

The new dining room

Dinner is served.

English lesson for the hotel staff

On the way to room 14

The latest rooms

Room no. 14

Fridge and air conditioner are included.

Early morning, from the bathroom

The construction work goes on.

They use funny watering cans.

The bricklayers know their job!

This arch is finished.

The new reception will get a concrete roof.

The concrete is prepared on site.

Before long, the guests will splash in it.

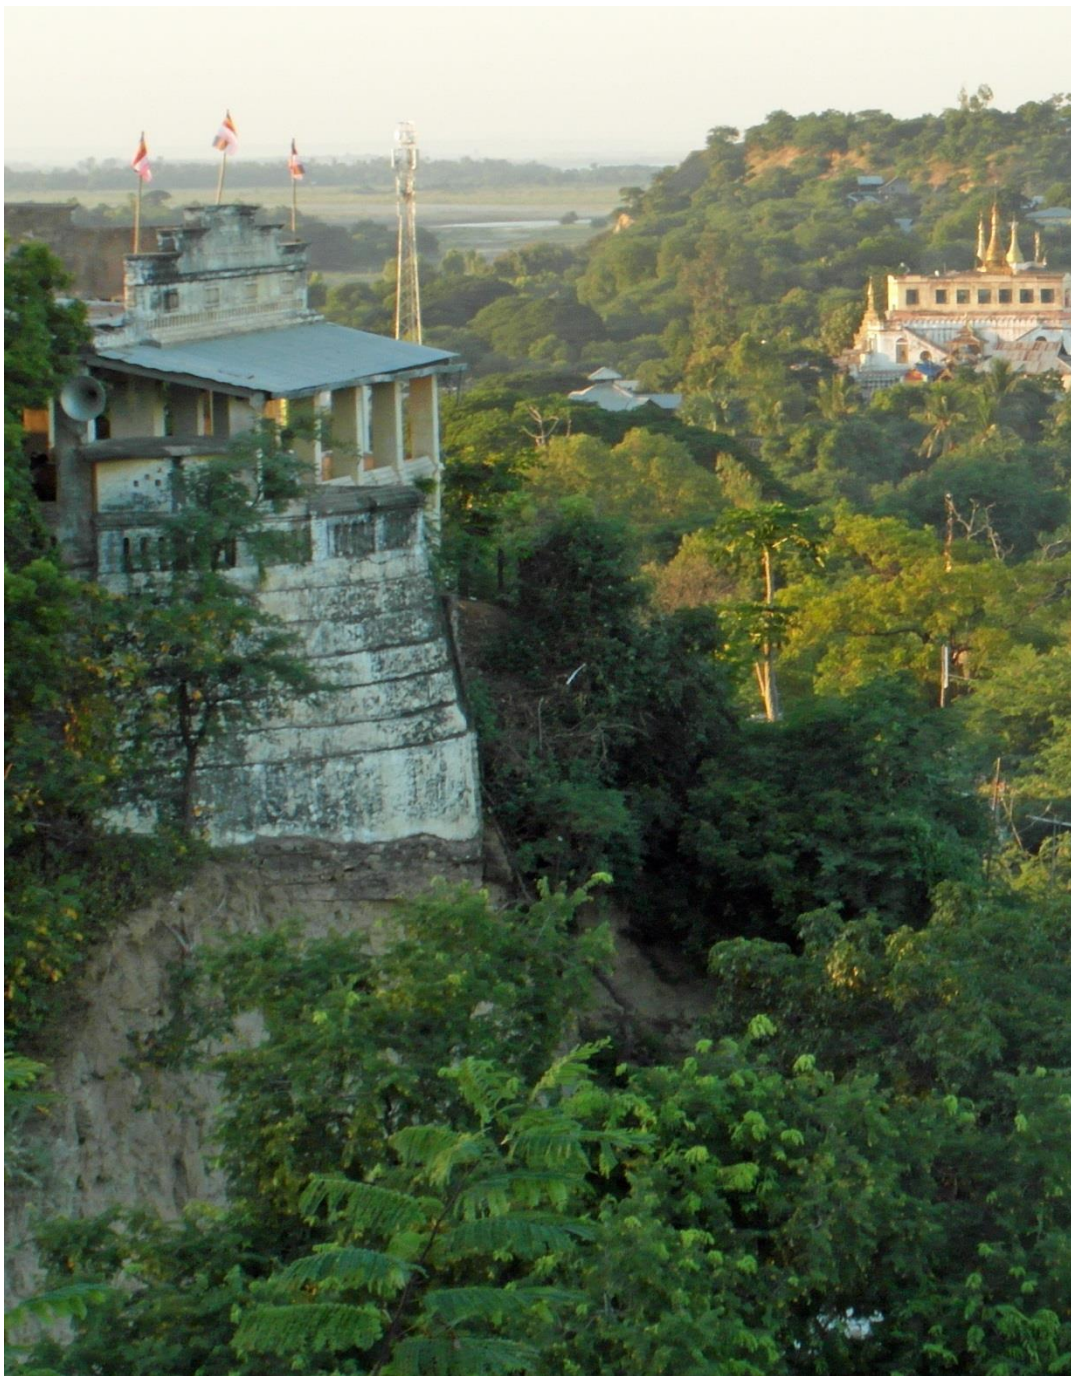

Sunset on a cloudy day ...

... and sunset on a clear day.

Good night!

The noisy neighbours will wake you at 4 a.m.

Luckily, there are quieter places around ...

... with a view to the next stupas.

The end